DWYER'S BARGES WENT ASHORE

The Rochester newspapers carry long accounts, illustrated with photographs, of the four big grain barges that went ashore off the rocks of the Genesee river in Rochester last Saturday night. The barges were beached by the raging current of the river on the rocks on either side of Elmwood avenue bridge in that city after breaking away from the steam barge Albany at the grade crossing where the barge canal and the Genesee river meet in Genesee Valley Park.

Two of the four barges are the Ursula of Rondout and the Eugene J. McCarthy. The latter is owned by James A. Dwyer, a son of James F. Dwyer, of this city, and is named after his college chum. Both of the barges were loaded with grain, and they were pulled off the rocks by a tug.

HOLY CROSS NOTES.

Advent Course of Sermons—Parish Fair—Every Member Canvass.

The new ecclesiastical year begins with the first Sunday in Advent, which is next Sunday. At the Church of the Holy Cross on the four Sundays in Advent the rector of the parish will be the preacher at the high Mass, 10:30 a. m. He will make the four sermons a course on "Four Paradoxes of Our Lord," the paradoxes to be considered this coming Sunday will be particularly timely inasmuch as peace is being much thought of at the present. The texts will be the two sayings of Jesus Christ, "Peace I Leave With You" and "I Came not to Send peace." The paradoxes of Jesus have caused much honest difficulty to many people. Father Mabry will attempt to show how these two extreme sayings are in perfect harmony. At the afternoon vespers Father Torok will give a course of sermons throughout Advent.

On next Sunday afternoon forty men, in twenty teams, will canvass the parish for pledges for financial support during the year 1922. After the 10:30 a. m. Mass the canvassers will be given luncheon in the parish house by a committee of women, after which they will set out on their mission. The pledge cards will be brought in at a special service to be held in the evening at 8 o'clock, and which will take the place of the afternoon vespers.

The parish fair for the benefit of the community work done in Holy Cross parish house will take place on the afternoons and evenings of Nov. 29, 30 and Dec. 1. A salad supper will be served Tuesday from 5 to 8 p. m. Balfe's orchestra will play on all three evenings. A splendid array of articles of clothing, toys, 200 dressed dolls, home made candies, home woven rag rugs and other things fitted for gifts at Christmas time will be on display in ten booths.

UTICA LEAGUE BRANCH REVOLTS

Its Action Against Pooling Dairymen Minimized Because It Is Only One Among 1,142 Branches—League Points to Results Achieved.

At a meeting of the Utica branch of the Dairymen's League on Saturday, November 19, the non-poolers were in the majority and elected officers of the branch who were not in favor of the pooling plan. They also elected a delegate to attend the annual meeting of the Dairymen's League to be held in Jersey City on December 13, and adopted a resolution calling on the state authorities to make an investigation of the cooperative association.

The Dairymen's League News explains that the Utica branch is only one of some 1,142 branches in the Dairymen's League and says further: It is the only branch out of the 1,142 that has taken any action against the cooperative association, and therefore the meeting was comparatively unimportant. Out of 1,142 delegates who will go to the annual meeting at Jersey City, the Utica delegate will probably be the only one instructed to work against the interests of the cooperative association. Most of these delegates have already been elected.

There are approximately 75,000 actual producers of milk in the Dairymen's League. Of this number 60,234 had signed the Co-Operative contract on November 21st. Thus it will be seen that the Dairymen's League is practically the Dairymen's League Co-Operative Association and the number of non-poolers in the larger organization is in a very great minority. When the pooling plan was proposed it was twice voted upon at great mass meetings of delegates coming from every one of the eleven hundred communities in league territory; at both these meetings the sentiment was unanimous to put the pooling plan into operation. The directors of the Dairymen's League Co-Operative Association are also the directors of the Dairymen's League and each of them was elected by the members of the Dairymen's League in his own territory. To qualify, the director must be an actual producer of milk.

The Dairymen's League and the Dairymen's League Co-Operative Association are willing to stand upon the results that have been obtained not only for dairymen of this section but for every other business during the last few months; for when farmers prosper all other business prospers. Prices for dairy products have been higher in this territory than have been paid for dairy products or any other kind of farm products in almost any other section in the United States. The result is that the farmers are better able to buy and all business has profited.

During the month of October the pooled price to dairymen was $2.47; this was 60 cents per hundred pounds higher than the average received by dairymen in sixteen other producing centers in the United States, or practically all the others east of the Rocky Mountains. If this 60 cents per hundred pounds is multiplied by the number of pounds of milk produced in league territory it will amount to approximately $2,000,000 which the dairymen, whether in the Co-Operative Association or not, received above that received by farmers elsewhere for the same amount and quality of milk.

GERMANY'S DANGER FROM RUSSIA, SAYS VON THERMANN

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, Nov. 26.—The declaration that Bolshevists are plotting a "soviet coup" in Germany, was made here today by Baron Edmund von Thermann, German commissioner here.

Germany's greatest danger is from Russia and Russian gold, the commissioner said.

"There will be much bloodshed in Berlin and other large cities this winter," said von Thermann. "The population is facing starvation. But there is no danger of a monarchist coup. The German people are done with emperors and seek only peace and a means of livelihood. France need never fear our nation, we are done with war. But communists, financed by Russian gold, are ever attempting a foothold in our country."

October Factory Earnings.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Albany, Nov. 26.—Average weekly earnings of New York state factory workers continued to decline from September to October. The average weekly earning in October was $24.52 or 54 cents less than that of September according to the statement issued today by the Industrial Commissioner, Henry D. Sayer, of the State Department of Labor. The weekly earnings of the factory workers of this state averaged 15 per cent less in October 1921, than in October, 1920. These facts are based on the 1,648 reports received monthly from New York state manufacturers by the State Department of Labor.

The Power of A Lie.

"Wholesome fiction has a very direct bearing upon the quality of our national life," says the president of Michigan University. Because this is true Dr. Baragwanath, pastor of St. James's Church (the green stone church) will continue on Sunday night his series of Dramatic Book Sermons. Bojer's great, gripping story, "The Power of a Lie" will be the subject discussed—the story deals with the deep tragedies of life. There will be fine music.

"FATTY'S" DEFENSE CLOSES MONDAY

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

San Francisco, Nov. 26.—The defense of Roscoe "Fatty" Arbuckle today turned its guns on the finger print evidence adduced by the state to support its charge of manslaughter against the film comedian.

Several experts were summoned. They were to testify in brief that the claim of Dr. E. O. Heinrichs that he had discovered an impression on the hand of Virginia Rappe with that of Arbuckle superimposed over it on the door to room 1219 at the St. Francis Hotel, where the fatal party was held, was "ridiculous."

While the main barrage today was to be directed at this point, the defense planned to keep up a supporting fire of evidence to that given yesterday by Irene Morgan, trained nurse, and Harry B. Barker, one time "sweetheart" of the dead girl, that on many occasions she suffered great pain from attacks of bladder trouble and on these occasions tore off her clothing in her paroxysms.

The Saturday half-holiday prevented the defense from closing its case as planned today. However, Gavin McNab announced as he went into court this morning that barring the unexpected, the defense would rest some time Monday. Whether Arbuckle will take the stand remains to be announced. While his attorneys give the impression that it has been decided to have him take the stand, it may be regarded as doubtful.

The surprise witness of the entire case was Barker. It revealed a romance of the early days of Virginia Rappe in Chicago. Barker, who now has a ranch in California and a real estate business in Gary, Ind., was then "on the road." He met Virginia Rappe, he said, in 1910—when the state contends she was but 13 years old—and a warm friendship sprang up which lasted 4½ years.

Barker made Chicago often, and when he did he "went with Virginia." When her grandmother lived, she usually accompanied them to dinner and to the theater, he said. He described dinners ranging from an Italian restaurant, where Virginia partook of too much red wine, to the LaSalle Hotel, where he met her the last time he saw her in Chicago. He declared he had seen her the last two months before her death.

At that time he admitted on cross-examination, "she was looking her old self, always bright, high-spirited and full of fun."

Barker underwent a grilling cross-examination and will likely be questioned further today.

The state may return to the stand also Miss Morgan. She fainted while under examination yesterday, but despite her weakness, held to her story and sprang a sensation by intimating detectives for the prosecution had attempted to prevent her testifying.

Considerable speculation reigned today over the action of the state in subpoenaeing Miss Catherine Fitzgerald of Los Angeles. It is understood Miss Fitzgerald is the beautiful housekeeper in charge of Arbuckle's palatial Los Angeles home—until Mrs. Arbuckle arrived. It is believed she was summoned to be used as a rebuttal witness in the event Arbuckle takes the stand. The prosecution is understood to believe that she could relate stories of gay parties at Arbuckle's home if she cared to do so. They, however, have not stated their purpose in issuing the subpoena, which also calls for the appearance of five others from the Los Angeles movie colony.

CLEARWATER NAMED

Special State Attorney to Fight N. Y. City Garbage Project.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Albany, Nov. 26.—(Special)—Proceedings to enjoin New York city from constructing and maintaining a garbage disposal plant at the foot of West 52nd street will be instituted by former Supreme Court Justice A. T. Clearwater, appointed a special deputy attorney general today by Attorney General Charles D. Newton.

Boatmen have complained that the structure seriously impedes their operations in this area.

STIFF SENTENCES IN LIQUOR CASES

Judge Hasbrouck Imposes $200 Fines in Fourteen Greene County Cases for Prohibition Violation.

There was an absence of a Thanksgiving spirit among fourteen residents of Greene county when Judge G. D. B. Hasbrouck of this city got through with them after they had pleaded guilty to violation of the Mullan-Gage state prohibition enforcement law upon their indictment by the Greene county grand jury on Wednesday. Judge Hasbrouck imposed a fine of $200 in each case.

Some of the indictments charged manufacture of intoxicating liquor, some charged illegal possession of liquor and some charged transportation of liquor. In the first case Judge Hasbrouck imposed as the alternative of payment of the fine, imprisonment in the Greene county jail for six months, and the defendant decided to take the six months. All subsequent sentences provided an alternative of one day in jail for each dollar of the fine unpaid, not exceeding 200 days. In one case sentence was suspended by Judge Hasbrouck for one year on account of the defendant's poor health. He had been indicted for having liquor in his possession.

Two of the men indicted for violation of the state prohibition law pleaded not guilty and their cases were sent to the Greene county court for trial.

The grand jury which found the indictments was one of the busiest that has sat in Greene county in many years. It dismissed ten cases and found indictments in twenty-cases. Four indictments were sealed. The indictments for violation of the Mullan-Gage law followed a series of spectacular raids which were staged in Greene county during the summer and early autumn.

NAVY GOAT IS TODAY'S FAVORITE

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, Nov. 26.—Army and Navy runug down the curtain on a wonderful football season here today.

Uncle Sam's colorful service teams, rivals since 1890, and watched with a feeling of personal interest by the entire country, came to grgips in the lee of Coogan's bluff at the Polo grounds in their twenty-fourth annual game.

Navy went into the contest a 2 to 1 favorite in the betting, but whether or not the middies rated it was a question. Red hot enthusiasm among the supporters of the future admirals had much to do with making the odds what they were and Army adherents snapped up thousands of dollars of navy money.

Snappy, partly cloudy weather was the order when the middies and cadets tumbled out of their couches this morning. The weather man predicted increasing cloudiness with probably warmer weather and rain by Sunday. So the weather lived up to tradition for Army-Navy games are seldom played beneath sunny skies.

Regardless of weather or anything else, a crowd of some 50,000 fortunates prepared to crash into the Polo grounds between noon and 2 o'clock, when the game was scheduled to start.

Something more than 500,000 people wanted to see the army mule tangle with the navy goat, and just nine-tenths of them had to be content with the thought of reading all about it in the papers. The line-up:

Army		Navy
Storck	l.e.	Parr
Mulligan	l.t.	Wiedorn
Breidster	l.g.	Carney
Green	c.	Larson
Garbisch	r.g.	Frawley

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

BY MARY GRAHAM BONNER

CHILDRENS' MUSEUM.

"The other day," said Daddy, "when I had to be in Washington on business, I found a little spare time in which to visit the children's miniature museum in a building known as the Smithsonian Institution.

"Mr. Giant Walking Stick."

"I took some notes of what I saw there, and I'd like to tell you all of the things I did see.

"In the first place, some one had especially arranged this for children, as all the animals and insects were placed quite low down so that everyone could see quite easily.

"Now, in this museum, where there were different kinds of birds and of insects, and of trees, there was a description of the bird or of the insect, and of its ways. And as all of us can't visit every interesting museum, I thought I would simply give an account of what I saw there."

"Oh, yes," said Nick, "we want to hear."

"We do indeed," said Nancy, "and then Daddy, you promised me you'd tell me about the exhibition of dolls you saw in the Old Museum there."

"I will," said Daddy. "Indeed I will tell you!

"Now, among the insects and spiders," Daddy continued, "were some scorpions and the thousand leg creature. Mr. Thousand Legs is very long and has lots of little legs underneath him.

"Of course he must have lots and lots of little legs when he is called Mr. Thousand Legs.

"Then I saw Mr. Tarantula from South America. Mr. Tarantula can catch birds. Then Mr. Giant Walking Stick was there with long feelers coming from his head. He, too, had been brought from South America.

"He had some little feelers, too, and three pairs of legs which are almost enough for any creature."

"I should say so," laughed Nick.

"He was grayish white in color."

"Then," Daddy continued, "there were examples of different kinds of trees and of the different creatures who lived in the trees, and of how they could protect themselves by the color of the nests they made, and by the safety habits they had.

"For example, the Brown Creeper creeps over the bark of trees which have much the same coloring as his feathers.

"The Wood Pewee has a nest, bending down, in the tree, shaped and fixed so that it almost looks like a part of the tree.

"Then the bird called the Least Tern always lays its eggs among the pebbles on the beach and the eggs and the babies are much the same color as the pebbles.

"In that way the Least Tern can protect the eggs from the Sea Gulls who would steal them if they thought they were eggs instead of pebbles.

Mrs. Nighthawk's ground nest is made to look like dead leaves and just like the ground. It is hidden that way.

"Then in the Museum they had many different kinds of gold fish and there were notices which told of the places from where they had come. There were birds of many kinds, with their nests and samples of their eggs being shown.

"Of course, all of these creatures had been stuffed or saved after they had finished their lives, and because they were saved like this any one could study them and see what they were like.

"There Was the Osprey."

"There were American birds we all know and there was an exhibition, or display, of rocks of all sorts, of beautiful corals, organ pipe corals, minerals of all kinds, wool and cord, and asbestos, which won't burn, you know.

"There you found out about Prince Albert's Bird of Paradise, who makes his home in New Guinea. He has two long plumes which look like rows of little flags growing out of the back of his head. He is black with a gray front and with tan and gold trimmings.

"There was the Osprey or Fish Hawk, too, which bird, as you know, feeds on fish and dives so well. The Osprey family builds large nests in the trees and the Mrs. Ospreys lay two or three mottled eggs. They are something like small eagles.

"So, those were some of the things I saw in the Museum, which I promised myself I would tell you about."

INFLUENZA IN CHILDREN

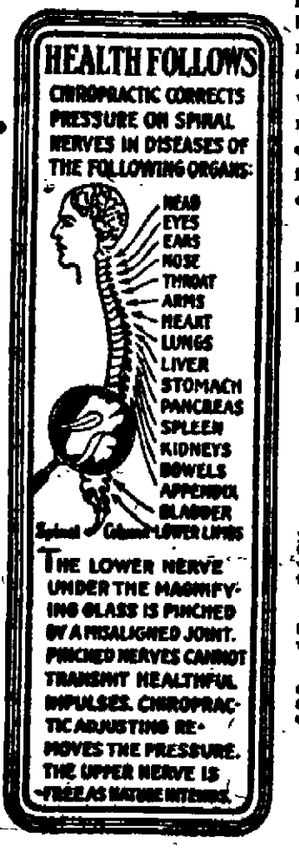
One Minute Essays on Health
By Froude & MacKinnon, D's. C.

Uncle Ben Says:
Prohibition, Nervy, has reduced the number of men who think they can sing.

There is no disease, unless the cause is removed quickly and effectively by chiropractic spinal adjustments, which leaves the system in a more weakened condition than influenza. Heart, lungs and kidneys are affected. A child under ordinary methods of treatment may be permanently weakened.

But under chiropractic spinal adjustments the cause is removed. The normal activity of the organs of the body is made possible and the natural force of health is exerted. Under ordinary methods these organs are "nursed" and restoration is by help to organs which remain weak. Under adjustments recovery is rapid and no after effects remain, because the recovery is due to the normal strength of the organs being restored.

Chiropractic spinal adjustments remove the cause of diseases of the head, throat, lungs, heart, stomach, liver, kidneys and intestinal organs.



Chiropractic means "done by hand." The true chiropractor adjusts the joints of the backbone to restore alignment and remove nerve pressure. He needs and uses nothing but his bare hands.

WHEN HEALTH BEGINS

When health begins depends on when you telephone 776 for an appointment. Consultation is without charge. Our invariable rule is never to accept a case that we are not confident we can benefit.

We are graduates of the Universal and Palmer Schools of Davenport, Iowa—the world's foremost chiropractic colleges.

The system of painless adjusting originated by us is acknowledged far superior to any method heretofore in use.

ZIEGFIELD'S $250,000 PRODUCTION

'The Black Panther's Cub'

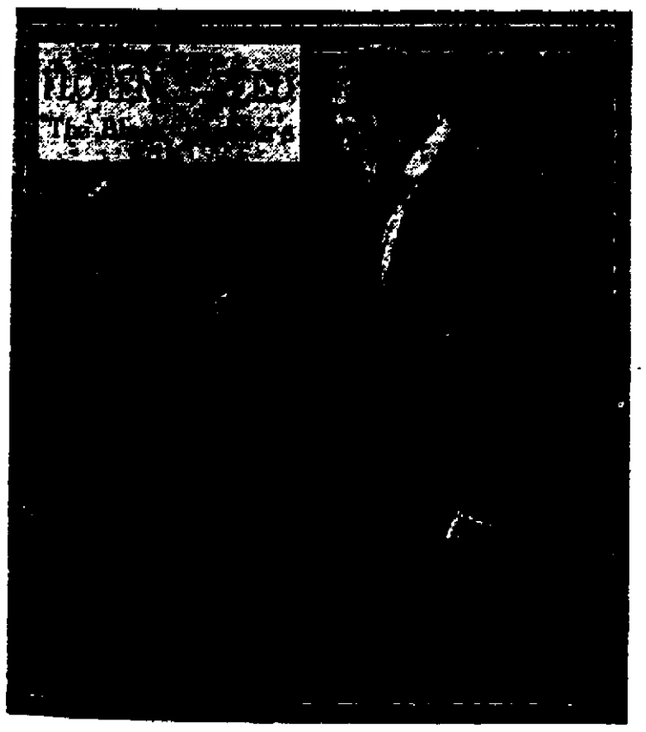
Florence Reed



Miss Reed achieves wonders, fairly stepping out of the screen into real life. Her work is remarkable. She assumes four distinct roles in this production, and in each she is perfection. Her work in the dual role in the last few scenes is truly the work of a great artiste. It is a scintillating, fascinating and enthralling epitome of Parisian life.

THE "EQUALITY" CAMPAIGN.

A breach in the ranks of the National Woman's party is reported. That party has been urging a constitutional amendment to remove all "political, civil or legal disabilities or inequalities on account of sex or marriage." Now Mrs. Florence Kelley, who has been an active member of the council of the Woman's party, raises her voice in warning, and the National Consumers' League, of which Mrs. Kelley is general secretary, announces a campaign of opposition. Mrs. Kelley says: "At the present time 44 states either restrict the working hours of women or have minimum wage commissions or do both. A Federal amendment to remove 'civil' or 'legal' disabilities on account of sex or marriage would endanger, if not actually abolish, this entire body of legislation. Also, such an amendment as the Woman's party proposes would endanger a mass of kindred measures enacted by the state legislatures and upheld by the courts, as adapted to promote the public health. The Woman's party amendment is particularly dangerous in that, if enacted, it entails perfectly new controversy in the courts over the meaning of the words 'civil' or 'legal' disabilities, and the phrase 'disabilities on account of marriage.'"

In other words, the proposed amendment may take away women's superior advantages and give men equal rights with women in these particulars. Existing law recognizes that women are weaker than men physically and provides for their protection and health. A constitutional amendment providing strict "equality" would destroy these superior advantages of women as well as change the laws recognizing the husband as the head of the house. What some of the reformers seem to want is to retain all the superior advantages of women while taking away such superior privileges of men as may still exist. If so, their own self-interest demands that they be more explicit, or definite in detail as well as bold in spirit.

CRIME IN GOOD OLD TIMES.

Crime waves have accompanied and followed wars before our time, as the following editorial utterance of the New York Times in 1864, now reproduced in that paper, will show: "For two full years after the war commenced New York was almost as peaceful and well-behaved as a rural village. The contrast at this time is fearful. Our columns, day after day, show that we are either getting a terrible influx of population from among the dangerous classes of other communities, or that we are breeding among ourselves a criminal population unprecedented as to its numbers and daring in the annals of the city. Garroting has become an established mode of assault, and midday robbery on the public streets is one of the latest phases of the outbreak. We can probably explain to ourselves how citizens may be waylaid at night in out-of-the-way streets, and robbed of their personal effects. But we are daily reporting robberies of a different kind, which show that crime is stalking abroad in a more dangerous form than we have hitherto known it."

Then follows a description of a daring assault and attempt to rob "within sight of Broadway" in a crowded day hour, prevented by the timely interference of a courageous citizen with "the nerve to do this sort of work." This proof of a crime wave 57 years ago, similar to the one we are now in the midst of, is likely to be somewhat disconcerting to the croakers who continually lament the passing of "the good old times" and praise the virtues of the past at the expense of the degenerate present.

Two of the railroad brotherhoods are as eager for a strike as they were the latter part of October. They declare that the action of the carriers in posting notices of further wage reductions is virtually a challenge to the men to strike. Well, let it come. The public is no eager now as it was six weeks ago to settle once and for all the question whether a minority of two or three per cent of the people can inflict sufferings on the rest of their fellow citizens to compel compliance with their demands. The merits of these disputes do not enter into the discussion at all. Were they as free from criticism as the employes themselves claim, and were the railroads as arrogant as the brotherhoods charge, still there would be no justification for the workers resorting to a strike for the purpose of winning their cause. An agency has been created for the settlement of all disputes between the roads and their men, and the country will never tolerate an organization that proposes to set that agency aside and take the law into its own hands.

What do you want to know about Nature Subjects? Send any questions of general interest to the Nature Notes Dept. of this paper. Look for answers in this column.

Can You Answer These Questions?

1. How old must an ostrich be to mate, and how old to yield feathers?
2. Are bears counted in the carnivorous animals?
3. Is it safe to handle garter snakes?

Answer's in Monday's Nature Notes.

Answers To Previous Questions.

1. How can you tell male and female canaries apart?

The average person cannot tell which is which, as they look about alike, and the female sings. The male has much the fuller voice and more of a song, hers being a sweet twitter. The male looks, to the practiced eye, bolder and more alert, and is said to have a fuller, brighter eye. When buying, go to a reliable dealer, and get a receipted bill for a male singer.

2. Can alligators feed under water?

They can seize prey under water, thanks to a fold of skin that forms a valve in the throat, and can crush the prey without coming to the surface. They appear to lift the head out of water when actually swallowing, giving the head a sort of toss or jerk.

3. Why is it bad to eat oysters in summer?

Recent biology claims the oyster is not essentially unwholesome in summer. The reason for the wide-spread prejudice against eating them in the "months without an R" probably is partly the chances of the oyster's spoiling while getting to market in summer. Also, the body is soft and thin in summer, after spawning, and not as good eating.

World's Armageddon Near

"Millions Now Living Will Never Die."

Six thousand years of human history in the past and despite the boasts of modern civilization that we are slowly evolving to a better state, mankind has just emerged from the most diabolical war of all time. The natural consequence is a lowering of moral and physical standards the world over. Instead of the "spiritual uplift" prophesied by the clergy the aftermath of the war is a world-wide crime wave, famine, pestilence, social and political disorder and unrest. What is the remedy? What hope is there of a better day? Are the dark clouds of trouble surrounding us the harbingers of a colossal universal disaster, or will Divine intervention save the race?

"For there shall be great tribulation, such as has not been since the beginning of the world until now (1914-1925), no, nor ever shall be, and except those days be shortened, no flesh would be saved; but the elect's sake those days will be shortened," and millions now living will never die. Hear the evidence, then judge and rejoice.

Graff Had Rough Return.

Augustus Graff, market gardener on the Kingston-West Hurley road across the Higginsville bridge, has returned from a two months' trip to Europe, having visited all the principal cities in Belgium, France, Germany and in England. He reports his trip home on the big ship the Nieu Amsterdam as very rough, he not having gone to bed for four nights. The combers came over the top of the vessel smashing everything on the decks. This was Mr. Graff's seventh trip over the Atlantic and will be memorable because of roughness, it being reported by the captain of the vessel as the worst one he had sailed during his forty years on the ocean Mr. Graff states that from observation and from what he could learn France and Germany were fast recovering from the effects of the late war.

TOMORROW IT MAY BE TOO LATE.

I have taken an allotment of $50,000 of 7% convertible Gold Debenture Bonds of the Cities Service Company, and am now offering these bonds to the public at a price that will net them 8% on the money invested, of course the price is changeable from day to day, depending on the market price, however, I can give you a firm offering every day at a fixed price for that day. I might add, I do not know of any bond paying even 8% that is in this classs as an investment security, as they are a long term bond, valuable conversion privilege, this security is much preferable, in my judgment, to any foreign Government Bonds. The assets of this company on January 10, 1921, was over one hundred and eighty millions of dollars, and the total reserves and surplus on October 10, 1921, were over fifty millions. This company has outstanding seventy-seven millions of cumulative preferred stock, three million four hundred thousand 6% preferred, and forty-six million three hundred and ninety-nine thousand of common stock. All these stocks paying dividends. These bonds, as a security are ahead of all of this stock; the earnings of the Debenture are over seven times the interest requirements on all 7% convertible Gold Debentures part of which I am offering on sale now.

The common stock of the Cities Service Company is now selling above $200 per share.

KINGSTONIAN AT PRESS CONGRESS

Wonders Of Hawaiian Islands and Their Fascinating Natives As Seen By Newspaper Men Are Described.

[It has been the custom of the editor of The Freeman, upon the rare occasions of his visits on vacation to unfamiliar places, to "write up" the wonders he saw. On the occasion of his recent trip to the Press Congress of the World he was fortunate enough to have this task taken over by a younger, cleverer and more vigorous person, to wit, Miss Arretta L. Watts, well known in the West as a special writer and instructor in journalism in the University of Missouri. In introducing her to our readers it may be interesting to note that before she had been in Honolulu six hours she received a proposal of marriage and several afterwards—the result of the printing of her portrait and an interview with her in a Honolulu paper.]

Yes, we're home again. We've seen the greatest active volcano on earth, have visited the most isolated group of islands on the globe, and have mingled in the most cosmopolitan atmosphere in the world—the 200 newspaper men and women representing 18 countries of the world who attended the World Press Congress last month in Honolulu and acquainted themselves with the beauty and wonder of the Hawaiian Islands—to say nothing of enlarging their vision through contact with the various people assembled together at that time.

One is tempted to start right in on the things Hawaiian but in these times when great world problems are occupying the attention of every thinking man and woman, one wants to know what various groups and peoples are doing in helping to settle these problems.

The timeliness of the World Press Congress, just preceding the Conference for the Limitation of Armaments at Washington, gave it added importance. This fact was never lost sight of. While the discussions all bore directly on journalism they must react indirectly on world politics.

Surely at this time too no better place for the Congress could have been found than Honolulu, a strategic point in the Mid-Pacific, and while in American territory in reality in a cosmopolitan environment For Asiatics and Europeans as well as Americans are active influences in the Hawaiian Islands—there are world problems constantly in the very air of Honolulu. No one who attended the Congress could fail to return to his work with a broader vision and a keener sympathy acquired through contact with their diversified opinions. These contacts cannot but react in the interest of journalism and make for a clear and more enduring understanding between the nations of the world.

As to the regular Press Congress meetings, the chief topics were those that touched upon the service that the world's journalism may render—adequate news communication between continents and peoples, freedom of news sources, uncensored exchange of news, a press responsible but free, the proper preparation for the entrance upon journalism, the maintenance of correct standards by those who have entered the field, the increased power of the press in the promotion of good or ill, and the right use of this power—these are the questions which received serious consideration through papers and discussions by the various delegates.

Among those who attended the Congress and had part in the programs were Dean Walter Williams, president; H. L. Bridgman, Brooklyn Standard Union; V. S. McClatchy, Sacramento Bee; Virgilio Roderiguez Beteta, Guatemala; Guy Innes and Herbert Davies, Melbourne, Australia; James Wright Brown, editor and publisher, New York; Col. Edward Lawson, London Daily Telegraph; Thales Coutoupis, Athens, Greece; Mark Cohen, New Zealand; K. Sugimura, Tokio, Japan; Wellington Tong, Pekin, China; Hin Wong, Canton, China; Alexander Hume Ford, Honolulu; Frank P. Glass, Birmingham, Alabama; Ludwig Saxe, Christiana, Norway; Gregorio Nieva, Manila, P. I.; Augustin Loza, Cuba, and many others.

The Pan-Pacific Congress, an auxiliary to the Press Congress of the World, occupied one day—dealing with problems directly affecting the Pacific. So important at this time was this branch of the work that plans were made for the reconvening of that body in Washington City on November 20, when Alexander Hume Ford, director of the Pan-Pacific Union, will meet with some forty Pacific delegates already in Washington City.

One might continue indefinitely on the work of the Press Congress, but to turn to the trip itself and something of things Hawaiian. Every story must have a start. Some might differ, but most of us will agree that this one started when the Steamer Matsonia which carried the main delegation (as to size) sailed from the Golden Gate Harbor, that Tuesday afternoon. But to hasten on—it's alright in some stories to go into details of ocean voyages but why waste time on that when one's destination is Honolulu? Suffice it to say that after a delightful six days of fair weather and a calm sea we arrived at 7 a. m. at Diamond Head off port of Honolulu, when we received true Hawaiian welcome—Aloha leis (a Hawaiian welcome token) were distributed by army and navy flying machines which flew overhead and by the reception committee which boarded the steamer from small boats. Hawaiian singers serenaded and the splendid Hawaiian band played welcoming airs. Other demonstrations of welcome came through navy submarines, torpedo boats and mine planters which met the steamer. There were also the Hawaiian divine boys and the famous Hawaiian outrigger canoes. Needless to say we felt welcome.

The outstanding Waikiki Beach with its Moana Hotel (headquarters) was soon the scene of business and pleasure. It was there the meetings were held with the exception of the Pan-Pacific meetings which were held in its old "Iolani Palace." It was in this old Palace building, now the Executive Building, that Governor and Mrs. Farrington gave their reception to the Congress on the first afternoon. The building stands in the center of the city and is surrounded by several acres of ground used as a park. It was in this palace that Liliuokalani, the last of the royal rulers, stood trial for treason in 1895, and in an upstairs room in the same building she was held prisoner for eight months, during which time she wrote the famous Hawaiian song "Aloha Oe." The building contains many historical paintings. Gov. Farrington welcomed the delegates and visitors and opened the Congress in the name of President Harding, who delegated him to represent the United States Government on this occasion. The day was completed by a banquet at the Moana hotel in the evening by the Honolulu committee.

Next on schedule we boarded the Matsonia again for a five days' cruise around the islands during which time we visited Hawaii, the largest of the group with its wonderful active volcano, Kilauea, and the island of Maui with its Haleakala. It is little more than an all day trip from Honolulu to Hilo, the chief port of Hawaii. Our boat left Honolulu at 3 a. m., passing Molokai and Maui and arriving at Hilo 225 miles away at 6 p. m.—thus giving us a day trip. This close in voyage along the windward side of the islands is most spectacular with its gorges, precipices and water falls. There are miles of precipices up to 1,500 feet in height, descending into the sea and covered with tropical vegetation. Among other things to be seen on the way is the leper settlement at Molokai, and the great sugar and pineapple districts of Maui.

True Hawaiian hospitality was again shown in a reception at Hilo by the people of Hawaii, an entertainment at the Hilo Yacht Club and a scenic railroad trip [illegible] the sugar plantations along the Hilo coast.

The big feature of the trip, of course, was the volcano—and here one stops, for it is impossible to describe it. From Hilo, in the afternoon, we went by automobile over splendid roads thirty miles to the volcano, passing on the way quaint villages filled with laborers from the cane fields, and miles of luxuriant tropical vegetation with much gorgeous coloring. One can never forget the gigantic tree ferns—acres and acres of them. A turn in the road and the Volcano House, four thousand feet above the sea, came into view. All around as far as one can see steam and smoke was issuing forth from crevices in clouds and there was the odor of sulphur. This steam seemed to be coming from hundred of pits and cracks. Some three miles across in the distance could be seen the vapor from the crater of the volcano itself.

After dinner at the Volcano House we started for the volcano, for we wanted to see it first by night. The hotel is situated on the edge of the outer crater of Kilauea six hundred feet above the great lava plain. A splendid automobile road takes one to the very brink of the inner pit. On the way we passed many dead volcanoes. We reached the inner crater about 8 p. m. Around the crater is more than 2,000 acres of cold lava rock, forming a great level mesa with nearly perpendicular sides fully 600 fet deep and about eight miles in circumference. In cooling the lava took on many peculiar shapes. The boiling pit is situated in the center of the plain and encloses a lake of fire 1,000 feet in diameter. Sometimes the boiling lava rises to the edge of the crater. When we saw it, it was about 100 feet below the brink. Last March it experienced its most active period in years; at that time it overflowed and lava flowed for miles down the sides.

It is impossible to describe this seething, burning mass of lava hissing and splashing. For a second it may look like molten iron, when suddenly it belches forth great geysers of red hot fire into the air. All around the brink of the pit one can look down into the red hot crevices from which stifling odors of sulphur and other gases constantly pour. We stood for hours grazing into the awe-inspiring Wonder of Nature, amusing ourselves scorching postal cards by placing them on the end of a stick and holding them on the edge of a crevice, and by collecting strands of "Pele's hair," the spun rock coming from the pit.

Many legends are told involving the volcano. It is ancient custom to cast gifts and offerings to the fire-goddess. We drove back to the hotel by moonlight anticipating our return to see the great wonder by day light the following day when Dr. Jagger, who has charge of the scientific work at the volcano, told us something of the great phenomenon from the scientific point of view. Under the auspices of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology an observation station has been established on the brink of the fire pit where Dr. Jagger is constantly on duty studying the varied phenomena. Kilauea and the country surrounding it (together with the crater of Haleakala on the island of Maui) has been created a National Park, an administrative part with Yellowstone, Yosemite, and Glacier National Parks.

We visited the lava molds and the lava tubes the next morning. These molds were made by the hot lava pouring down upon and burning the trees, which finally crumbled, leaving the hole in the shape of the tree.

From Hilo we went to the island of Maui—some of the party took the trip to the dead volcano, Haleakala, while others remained to see the Maui Fair, an annual exhibition of products for the promotion of farming, livestock raising, and other industries of the island. We could never forget the wonderful display of hibiscus blossoms—hundreds of varieties.

The Haleakala trip is one of the most unusual in the world. At the summit one stands on the edge of a crater 2,340 feet in depth and seven miles across. Inside the main crater are thirteen minor craters up to 750 feet in height, all bearing evidence of prehistoric violent volcanic activity.

At Lahaina, formerly the capital of Hawaii, we were introduced to a real Hawaiian luau or native feast. Hawaiian hospitality is famous the world over. Perhaps the greatest factor in establishing its justly favorable reputation is the luau. Mats, ferns and ti leaves upon the floor are sometimes substituted for table and chairs, while fingers are used in the place of knives and forks; we were, however, given table and chairs. The meats and fish were prepared in a sort of barbecue fashion—they are wrapped in banana and ti leaves and cooked in the ground. Poi, the national staple dish had a prominent part in the feast; it was formerly served in large and beautifully polished calabashes. The hula dance which in former times characterized the Hawaiian feast is gradually being eliminated, although several hula dances were staged for the benefit of the Press Congress visitors. In its original form the dance possessed real religious meaning.

At Kahului, before boarding our steamer for Honolulu, we were given some unusual swimming demonstration. Swimming is the fvaorite sport of the natives. Honolulu as well as all Hawaii is very proud of Duke Kahanamoku, the world's champion swimmer, who carried off the swimming honors in 1912 in the Olympic games at Stockholm—one hundred yards in fifty-five and one-fifth seconds—, and at Antwerp in 1920, with many other Hawaiians contesting, he maintained his record. He is a splendid looking fellow, six feet tall and as dark as an Indian. He makes his home at Waikiki Beach, where he is a conspicous figure almost every day.

While speaking of acquatic sports in Hawaii, one cannot fail to mention the out-rigger canoes. These boats are made by the natives, and are about two feet wide, two feet deep and varying in length from fifteen to twenty-five feet. They are made by hollowing out logs, both ends of the boat being trimmed to a point. From one side extends an outrigger, made of long curved poles with a cross-bar of light weight wood which floats along the surface of the water, forming a balance. We found ourselves malininis (new comers), though we were, enjoying riding the surf in the out riggers. But the daring and distinctively Hawaiian aquatic sport is surf-riding. It was most fascinating to watch the natives standing erect on their surf boards dashing shoreward, topping the crest of the highest waves. Much practice and great skill are required to excel in this sport, although many tourists pick up the art quickly.

So extensive and varied was the entertainment not only in Honolulu but throughout the islands, that it would be impossible to go into much detail. There was a trip to Schofield Barracks and a reception by the military authorities there, with unusually interesting demonstrations of field work. One day we had a boat trip to Pearl Harbor with its famous ten million dollar dry docks. On the way naval exercises were carried out at sea.

Then there was a wonderful trip around the island during which we passed the great pineapple and sugar plantations, and the Mormon Temple at Laie. One cannot fail to mention the special exhibition of Hawaiian feather capes and cloaks at the Bishop Museum in Honolulu. These feather capes and cloaks are very rare and valuable, and are exhibited only on special occasions. They were made for Hawaiian chiefs in the early days, and were the accumulation of years of trapping the birds in the mountain jungles; they were among the most valuable possessions of the Hawaiian chiefs. Only a small tuft of feathers from each bird could be used, and most of the birds from which the feathers were obtained are now extinct.

Another feature not to be overlooked was the trip to the Hawaiian Pineapple Packers' factory where we were shown all the processes of pineapple canning. One gets an idea of the importance of the industry when he learns that Hawaii produces six times as many pineappies as all the rest of the world. Then there was the trip to the Oahu Sugar Plantation, the largest on the island, with its annual crop of 45,000 tons of sugar. We were shown all the processes from the time the cane is cut in the field until it sweetens the breakfast drink.

In these Hawaiian cane fields is to be found one of the very serious labor problems of our country today. The people of the islands are losing this year $10,000,000 on their sugar because of a shortage of labor. There is not enough labor to harvest the crop. The people of the islands want the U. S. Government's consent at the present time to import 10,000 Chinese to work in the cane fields.

The churches and schools, too, did their part toward the visitors. Besides demonstrations given on the school grounds and the palace grounds, the Chinese Students' Alliance, consisting of Hawaiian-born Chinese in the University of Hawaii, staged the Chinese play "The Yellow Jacket" for the visitors.

One day was occupied in an inspection of the penitentiary under William Jarret, high sheriff, and an inspection of the Kalihi Leprosarium, where Dr. F. E. Trotter and Dr. H. E. Hasseltine gave most interesting demonstrations of the progress being made in the use of chaulmoogra oil in arresting the disease. The leper patients put on a splendid program for the visitors.

One cannot conclude a story of a trip to the Hawaiian Islands without a word about the Pali, the famous precipice some six miles from Honolulu which is reached by a drive through the beautiful Nuuanu Valley clothed with bowers half hidden beneath coconut palms, papaia and breed fruit trees. From the Pali there is a wonderful view of land and sea for miles. On its summit is a stone tablet erected by the Daughters of Hawaii in 1907 to commemorate the battle of Nuuanu, fought in that valley in 1795 when the invading Kamehameha I drove the forces of Kalanikupule, King of Oahu, to the Pali and buried them over the precipice, thus establishing the Kamehameha dynasty.

There is a charm about the islands in the Mid-Pacific with their colorful vegetation, their balmy climate, splendid scenery and developing industries, but what impresses one most is the people. As an interracial experiment station it is of supreme importance. But as a place where one comes in contact with a race hospitable, generous and sincere, it is charming.

The Hawaiians are a stalwart race, generous, pleasure loving and natural musicians. Who of those who have heard them can forget the music that seems to just pour forth. They welcomed the earliest visitors gladly and speedily embraced religion when brought to them by American missionaries from New England in 1820. The Hawaiians were never savages.

The day came too soon when we were scheduled to leave the beautiful islands. As is their custom in Honolulu, hundreds of people, natives and all, were at the boat to bid us bon voyage. They have a pretty custom of decorating those leaving with leis (wreaths of flowers) and other Aloha offerings. Leis are long chains of flowers strung and sold by the native women for all sorts of gala occasions. They are placed upon the shoulders of departing friends who throw them back to shore as the boat moves away.

After our delightful visit to the Hawaiian Islands, we agree with Mark Twain, "They are the loveliest fleet of islands anchored in any ocean."

OUR DAILY PATTERN.

A Chic and Charming Design.

2301-2793—Here is a very popular variation of the jumper dress—and a pretty guimpe to wear with it. As portrayed, wool jersey embroidered in floss was used. The guimpe is of georgette with self frills and hemstitching for trimming. In dotted or crepe a trimming of grosgrain ribbon would be pleasing.

The guimpe 2301 is cut in 7 sizes: 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44 and 46 inches bust measure. The dress 2793 is cut in 8 sizes: 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48 inches bust measure. The width at the foot is about 2 yards. This style is good for slender as well as for mature figures. The dress front is cut with fulness beneath the yoke extension of the back. To make up this style for a 36 inch size, requires 2¾ yards of 36 inch material for the guimpe and 3¾ yards for the dress, of 44 inch material.

This illustration calls for TWO separate patterns, which will be mailed to any address on receipt of 12c FOR EACH pattern in silver or stamps.

Catalogue Notice.

Send 12c in coin or stamps for our up-to-date fall and winter 1921 catalogue, containing 150 designs of Ladies', Misses' and Children's Patterns, a concise and comprehensive article on dressmaking, also some points for the needle illustrating 24 of the various simple stitches, all valuable hints to the home dressmaker.

TWO EVILS IN MILK BUSINESS

Too Many Distributors In Kingston Makes Price High And Producers Often Drive Consumers To Canned Milk By Their Unsanitary Methods.

Editor, The Freeman:

I have noticed in the valuable editorials in your paper. Since I have been in the milk business in Kingston city for four years, and prior to that time, I was a farmer, I should like to give a few views as to the milk situation in Kingston. Eight years ago milk was sold in Kingston at seven cents a quart. In the four years I was in business milk increased to nine cents a quart. From that time milk has increased until at the present price is fifteen cents a quart retail, while the farmer receives but three cents more a quart. At the price of nine cents per quart milk was required to contain 3.5% butter fat, and not over 200,000 bacteria, if my memory serves me rightly. The dealers nearly all complied with this rule. The Board of Health reduced the butter fat 3% fat and still the dealers do not meet the requirements. Are the dealers making more than before? The answer is no. At that time there were nineteen dealers handling about seven thousand quarts of milk, many dealers handling two hundred quarts alone which is a fair day's work. Now we have twenty-six dealers selling about four thousand or five thousand quarts of milk, each dealer employing on an average two or three men to do their work, or at the present, there are about sixty quarts delivered for each man employed, to say nothing about over head expenses. Now I am surprised that the dealers are doing as well as they are. Every now and then in big headlines we read, "City milk full of dirt and bugs." Then a great number buy evaporated milk in tin cans

Another phase of the situation is the violation of the city ordinance by the distributors. I should like to ask your honorable Board of Health if the fault of the ordinance is with the dealers or the source of supply. Now if a farmer has clean stables, clean strainers, clean cows, clean milk pails and the milk is at once cooled to fifty degrees and not to sixty degrees and kept there the consumer will be getting milk below fifty thousand bacteria, and it does not cost a farmer more to make four percent milk than three percent. It would not be long before there would be ten thousand quarts of milk sold in Kingston at less cost to the consumer. The farmer would have market for more milk and every one would be selling more milk and having larger incomes than at the present.

I am thanking you for your space.

FRANKLY---

Every picture made is described as a Million Dollar production and all the adjectives in the dictionary are used to herald its coming and its greatness—

BUT---

If you want to see something that did not cost a fortune to make—a picture play that grips your interest from the very start and tells a heart interest story that will make you better for seeing it and want to see it again and bring your family and your friends. I can heartily recommend WILLIAM FARNUM in "PERJURY" and promise you, without any hesitation, that you will agree with me that you would not have missed it for anything in the world.

The wonder play of the century

OVER The HILL

From the poems of Will Carleton

Scenario by Paul H. Sloane

Directed by Harry Millarde

HOW THE NEW YORK CRITICS REGARDED "OVER THE HILL"

"It was a happy idea that caused William Fox to base his latest feature film "Over the Hill" on the poems by Will Carleton T.he picture which began an engagement at the Astor last night before a large and appreciative audience abounds with excellent humor and pathos, and tells a story of genuine interest that is gripping T.he picture is one of the most consistently interesting seen on Broadway in a long time."—New York Evening World.

"Go to see 'Over the Hill.' It will go on and on. No school, no lecture, no Bible, no prison can do any more effective work. It gets you. It will sends millions out of the theatre miserably happy, resolved to bring a bit more of happiness to their homes."—New York Globe

"William Fox has made one of the few great pictures of the year. He has achieved not only one of the few best photoplay dramas, but he has given us the greatest cinema drama of its kind ever produced. 'Over the Hill' is a gem and it would be a flint-hearted soul indeed who could fail to appreciate its fine pathos."—New York Telegraph.

"Laughter and tears and raptures—all old-fashioned emotions kept the first night spectators at the showing of 'Over the Hill,' at the Astor Theatre in their seats after the final curtain, applauding the darkened scene. Wonder of wonders it was for Broadway and the picture theatres."—New York Tribune.

"'Over the Hill' not only received an amazing reception by a brilliant assemblage on the night of its premiere, but from the standpoint of criticism, was accorded a most unusual welcome. Collectively and individually the newspapers of the metropolis vied with each other in singing the praise of this wonderful picture of home life and family virtues."—New York Review.

"OVER THE HILL" tells a story as old as life itself and as new as the present moment. It is a story of mother-love divine—of beautiful service suffered uncomplainingly, and finally rewarded.

Tears there are, of course, but tears that are immediately followed by wholesome laughter. It fairly bulges with fun—the kind of fun such as the older ones have had in their youth and such as the youthful are now having. It is the humor that results from the inconsequential things in the everyday life of a plain unpretentious family—the kind of humor that centers about a family of six lively children, a dog, a shiftless father and—a loving forgiving mother.

During the year nearly a million New Yorkers flocked delightedly to see it, constituting in several instances a traffic problem of no small proportions. The crowds that gathered twice daily in the theatre lobby before it constituted, too, a veritable Vanity Fair, inasmuch as it drew to its doors people from every walk of life, the young, the old, the rich and poor. The universality of its appeal makes "Over the Hill" at once the picture for everybody. There is no type or class of theatregoer extant that "Over the Hill" cannot amuse and entertain.

DISPLAY RED CROSS BANNERS

The people of Kingston who have joined the Red Cross in the present roll call are urged to display their banners in some window of their homes for several reasons. In the first place, by doing so the canvassers will be spared from the embarrassment of calling a second time on people who are already members and the people themselves will be spared the annoyance of unnecessary requests to join the Red Cross. As it is, every conscientious canvasser failing to see a banner in any residence on his route must call and see if the people have or have not been given the opportunity of joining the Red Cross. While it may seem a bit hard to understand why people cannot take out a dollar membership in the Red Cross, still every one knows his or her own financial state as no one else can, and it is neither a disgrace nor any one's business if anyone says they feel they cannot afford to join the Red Cross this year Running away from the solicitor is not so dignified

The other important reason for showing the banner in each home is that it may encourage some indifferent or thoughtless neighbor to do the same and so get memberships for this great, merciful organization that we all need as our biggest insurance against disaster, epidemic, etc., and as doing constructive good.

ON-A-JOB, OFF-A-JOB JIM!

Being a Story

Of how Jim got on a job and why he got off it again.

Among other jobs, Jim had applied to a street-paving concern, who consented to take him on. The main street in the city had been pulled up for tracks, and the paving stones were being relaid. The townspeople had been kicking for some time over the delay, and the boss was glad to hire Jim as an extra hand, in spite of the fact that he was green at the work. He could throw sand, or tend to the melting tar if he couldn't lay brick.

But Jim, adaptable to any job, saw the chance of stretching out his tasks to four days, two at pouring tar and throwing sand; two at laying the cut stone, a job that he could learn from observation and suggestions made by the workmen.

Knowing that the boss had need of more hands, he put his proposition up to him bluntly; two days at one job, two at the other, not caring to tell him about the strange will that necessitated his securing a new job every two days in order that he might inherit $3,000,000.

His chief task during the first two days was that of chopping the huge blocks of tar into pieces small enough to fit into the pot, under which a lively fire was kept burning. Jim supplied the wood for the fire, the tar for the pot, and poured the melted tar into the pails which the men brought to him.

There wasn't any time for dawdling, for the work was being rushed, and Jim was expected to keep moving with the rest of the gang.

The second day was blustery. The wind howled down the street, sweeping sand and papers in its wake. Jim was bending, axe in hand, over a tar barrel, off which he was ripping the staves in order to get at the hardened tar within, when the object whirled past his head—sharp razor-like implement cut across his cheek. There was a scream, that caused Jim to whirl around in alarm. The object that had flown past him had landed in the pot of boiling tar. It was a hat of soft beaver, with a black quill jauntily perched on one side.

The owner of the hat, who was also the owner of the scream, stood by. "Isn't it awful! That hat cost me twelve dollars!"

Jim approached the pot, reached out and pinched the quill between two fingers. He pulled. The feather came, the hat stayed, buried deeper than ever in the soft tar.

"I'm afraid it wouldn't be any good, if it was rescued," said the young woman. "You never heard of tar being removed from beaver, did you?" She twirled on her heel, and suddenly caught sight of the gash on Jim's cheek. "Why, you poor dear, how did you get that cut? From my hat pin?"

Jim rather liked being called "dear" by the stunning young lady, but he did not like the crowd that was gathering.

"I'm used to it," the woman exclaimed. "I'm the leading woman at the Empire Theatre. And since my hat pin did so much harm, I want to make repairs. Will you come up to the theatre tonight for a chat? You'll excuse me for saying it, but you seem too scholarly for a laborer."

"I'm a college graduate," laughed Jim. "But there's a reason for my madness. And I'll accept your invitation for tonight, gladly. The boss has his eye on me, so I must get busy. Good bye."

"Till tonight," nodded the actress, walking, bareheaded away.

Jim returned to his work, in a happy frame of mind. He saw a number of chances for jobs ahead of him—and several pleasant hours with a charming woman.

Plant Has Peculiar Property.

Pitcher plants catch in their "pitchers" not only insects and spiders in immense numbers, but also, occasionally mollusks and crustaceans and even tree frogs and lizards. Some species of insects are adapted for living with impunity in the pitchers, where they feed on the remains of the captured insects.

Peculiar Earth Rumblings.

The neighborhood of Moodus, Connecticut, used to be celebrated for subterranean sounds known as "Moodus noises." Sometimes eight or ten reports, like the firing of small arms, were heard in 5 minutes, and again the noise was like the rumbling of thunder. Slight earthquakes were probably the cause.

Sumptuary Laws Cut Expenses.

Before the present Mikado's father abolished the sumptuary laws, a Japanese nobleman even of the highest rank was not permitted to spend more than $80 for a dress for his wife.

Card Of Thanks.

We wish to thank our friends and neighbors for their kindness during the illness and death of our brother George Joseph.

Ardent Hyde writes from New York as follows: I wish to extend to my relatives and friends in Port Ewen and Kingston my deep appreciation for the shower of cards received in remembrance of my 68th birthday. A literal shower they really were, for it seems the postman had a handful every trip To one who has been ill for the past eleven months, such an event is a true joy, for as I look over the cards again and again they symbolize friendships, kindly thoughts, sincere hopes—and I am glad in the reflection that, even though encompassed with sickness I am never alone. Aside from my family, there are those who carry one in mind and heart—and such a downfall as I so lately received is evidence of the kind wishes that exist always. I hope all will receive this in the spirit of personal thanks.

Proud Professors.

In ancient days professors were "too proud" to take wages, and depended on gifts from their pupils for their existence. The Emperor Vespasian was the first to establish state-paid education during his reign, about A. D. 69.

Two days after his arrival Dr. Adolf Lorenz, the wonder man of bloodless surgery, donned his white gown and plunged into the work of helping America's crippled children regain the use of their limbs. He held his first clinic at the dispensary of the Hospital for Joint Diseases, in New York city, where an entire floor of the big building had been placed at his disposal. For three hours the sixty-three-year-old Austrian wizard of joint diseases conducted an examination of the seemingly endless stream of unfortunates who thronged the place. LOCAL DEATH RECORD.

Recent Deaths and Funerals of Persons in This Vicinity.

The funeral of Charles Van Aken, a member of the city force, who died suddenly Wednesday morning, was held from his late residence, 56 East Strand, Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock. The funeral services were conducted by the Rev. Mr. Appeldoorn of Port Ewen. Interment was in St. Remy cemetery.

Dorothy May, the four year old daughter of Albert Miers, died Friday evening after a short illness. Besides her father she leaves one sister, Anna, and one brother, William. The funeral will be held from her late home, No. 41 Hudson street, on Monday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Interment in Montrepose Cemetery.

Mrs. Nellie M. Houghtaling, a lifelong resident of Hurley, died this morning after a long illness, aged 88 years. She leaves no immediate relatives but is survived by several grandchildren, nephews and nieces. The funeral will be held from her late home at Hurley Tuesday morning at 9:30 and 10 o'clock at the Reformed Church at Hurley. Interment in the family plot in the Hurley cemetery.

One of the saddest sights witnessed in Kingston in a long time was the double funeral of little Francis J. and Anna V. son and daughter of Joseph and Mary Tomczyk, of 112 First avenue, held this morning. The funeral cortege halted in front of the Church of the Immaculate Conception for a few minutes while the church bell tolled and all the school children were gathered to pay their last respects to their little friends and playmates. The Rev. Francis Lesniewski accompanied the remains to Mt. Calvary cemetery and conducted the committal services.

The funeral of John W. Howley, a popular conductor on the West Shore railroad for many years, was held at the family residence, 131 Elmendorf street; this morning at 9:30 o'clock and at 10 o'clock a solemn high Mass of requiem was celebrated at St. Joseph's Church for the repose of his soul. There was a very large attendance of friends and members of Division No. 5, A. O. H., the St. Joseph's Holy Name Society, Kingston Lodge, No. 550, B. P. O. E., and a score of locomotive engineers and railroad conductors, being at the service. The celebrant of the Mass was the Rev. Martin P. O'Gara, the Rev. McCabe being the deacon, and the Rev. Henry Fitzgerald subdeacon. In the chancel were the Rev. Dean J. J. Hickey and the Rev. John J. Briody. During the offertory Miss Bessie Cusack sang very feelingly "Thy Will Be Done," and after the Mass Mrs. Raymond Garrison sang most effectively "Face to Face." As the body, encased in a bronze casket, was being borne from the church the full choir sang "Nearer My God To Thee." Tuesday evening the Elks and the Holy Name Society visited the house and paid their last honors to their fellow member. The floral offerings from the organizations of which deceased had been a member, and from relatives and friends, were many and of beautiful design. The honorary bearers were brother employes of the West Shore railroad for a number of years, being T. D. Murphy, W. D. Delaplaine, James Dingman, Timothy Mahoney, James H. Quinn and Patrick Cahill. The active pall bearers were P. H. Cullen, Valentine Schirick, Lawrence F. Bannon, James Lynch, William Byrne, Harry Kennedy. The interment was in St. Mary's cemetery the remains being escorted to the last resting place by a long automobile cortege, being accompanied by the priests who performed the committal services.

Essentials.

What do "successful" men think made them succeed? What qualities in other men would they think promised an important and useful future? Perhaps the opinions of no group of persons on such matters could be more valued than that of the membership of the American Society of Engineers. Fifteen hundred of these key-men of industry answered a questionnaire on "The Eight Qualities Essential for Success." The voting on a dozen or more qualities, worked out in order of the relative frequency of their selection, resulted in this list being preferred by the engineers: character, judgment, initiative, resourcefulness, ability to handle men, enthusiasm, industry, technical training. From this piece of testimony it would seem to be a question of the "man" first, the "engineer" second.

Princess Mary

The betrothal of Princess Mary, only daughter of King George and Queen Mary of England, to Viscount Lascelles has been officially announced in London. Viscount Lascelles is the oldest son of the Earl of Harewood. He is thirty-nine years old and won distinction in the World War, being wounded three times and winning the British Distinguished Service Order and the French Croix de Guerre. Princess Mary was twenty-four years old last April. It was learned from a close friend of the couple that the wedding would take place some time between Christmas and the beginning of the Lenten season.

Miss Mary Moore.

Dr. Adolf Lorenz.

Miss Mary Moore, pretty New York actress, was the first American patient of Prof. Adolf Lorenz, the famous Austrian "bloodless surgeon," who is now visiting the United States on a mission of mercy. Miss Moore is a patient in the Broad Street Hospital, where she was operated on for a broken neck. She was injured in an automobile accident. Dr. Lorenz was called in to observe her case, and the operating surgeons followed his advice for resetting the misplaced vertebrae. She is reported on a fair way to recovery. The diagram portrays the area affected by the auto accident in which Miss Moore was injured.

COLONIALS GIVE SCHATZ TROPHY

The Poughkeepsie Eagle-News says:

In recognition of his good sportsmanship, Lou Brown, manager of the Colonials of Kingston, presented J. William Schatz, of the Schatz Club of this city, a handsome silver trophy, Tuesday. Mr. Brown made a special trip to Poughkeepsie to bring this token of the esteem of the Colonials to the local manager.

Through the developments of the Hudson Valley Semi-pro League of last summer, the managers of the Colonials, the Schatz Club and the Regulars went through various disputes in which the Regulars fell into disfavor with the Colonials, while the Schatz Club correspondingly increased in favor. The Schatz Club lost three games to the Colonials, while the Regulars broke even, a dispute preventing the play-off.

Mr. Schatz is held in high regard in Kingston, he being Kingston's idea of a "regular fellow." This trophy expresses not only the feeling of the Colonials and their management, but of the fans of the Colonial City as well.

FRANKLIN
With a Score of Recent Improvements

AGAIN Franklin leads the way! It is the only car you can buy with case-hardened crankshaft bearing surfaces—the greatest advance in motor car construction in recent years.

The new crankshaft will outwear any other three shafts. This saves trouble, delay and expense. Also, because it has seven main bearings, instead of the usual three, vibration is unnoticeable. The Franklin is the only car that will go through an ordinary ownership without needing to have crankshaft bearings taken up.

Franklin Policy Gives Owners Immediate Benefit of Latest Proven Advances

This crankshaft is only one link in the chain of automobile progress shown in the Franklin of to-day. Others are just as outstanding.

Starting is easier than ever—improved electric vaporizer, new starter with brisk turning power. Perfected silent chain starter drive and the patented Long-type aluminum pistons also insure quiet engine operation.

Drive shaft, universal joints and important bearings are larger. Spring pivot bolts are adjustable. The last word in durable drop forgings' use now appears in certain load-carrying parts.

Lengthened rear springs; simplified ignition system; automatic lubrication of valves and steering yoke pins; most efficient service brake yet designed—each feature a real gain!

Quietness, Comfort, Reliability and Economy Mark Franklin Development

Back of all these advances are Franklin's 20-year-old principles of light weight, flexibility and direct air cooling (no water to boil, freeze or leak). The new benefits therefore merely serve to increase Franklin comfort, ease of handling, roadability, reliability and economy:

20 miles to the gallon of gasoline
12,500 miles to the set of tires
50% slower yearly depreciation

YOUNG JUDAEA LOSES.

Hudson Team Hands Them First Defeat This Year.

The winning streak of the Kingston Young Judaea basketball team was brought to an end Thanksgiving afternoon, the Junior Y. M. H. A. of Hudson defeating them in a fast game by a score of 22-16. It was the first defeat the Young Judaea Club has sustained since organizing early last season.

The first half ended with the score of 9-7 in favor of the locals, but in the second half the superior weight of the visiting team proved too much for the Kingston boys and they drew away from them. Three field baskets by Diamond, of the up-river boys, in the last few minutes of play, gave them the edge. Both teams played excellent ball throughout.

The Young Judaea basketball team is of the 120 pounds class and they would like to hear from any other teams in this vicinity. The line-up is as follows: Forwards, Levy and Kanzer; center, Meyers; guards, Wolff, Markson and Millens. Any team wishing games should notify R. Epstein, 23 St. Mary's street, city.

AT THE THEATERS.

"Deception" at Keeney's—"Perjury" at Opera House.

A veritable cave man lover is Henry VIII of England in "Deception," showing again tonight at Keeney's. The story of "Deception" deals with Henry's espousal and subsequent repudiation of Anne Boleyn, his second wife. It is a tremendous story of love behind a throne. The staging is lavish and there is a cast of over 7,000 people in this big production. On Monday and Tuesday the popular combination of stars, Wallace Reid, Agnes Ayers and Theodore Roberts in another speed romance bursting across the screen at a mile-a-minute clip, "Too Much Speed."

"Perjury," starring William Farnum, is showing for the last times at the Opera House tonight. Starting Monday "Over the Hill," it will be here five days.

Marie Prevost in "Nobody's Fool," is the attraction at the Auditorium tonight and it is a laughing story for less serious minded folks, and a Century comedy is added for more laughs. On Monday Florence O'Brien the perfect lover in "Is Life Worth Living?"

Douglas Fairbanks whose production "The Three Musketeers," will close a most successful week's showing at the Colonial Theatre tonight will be succeeded on Monday and Tuesday by Florence Reed in emotional drama, Ziegfeld's motion picture extraordinary, "The Black Panther's Cub." This photodrama is adapted from Swinburne's immortal poem "Faustine," and sets a pace for regal magnificence and gorgeousness of scenes and dramatic effects.
